

Many Faces, One Voice:

Lisa K. Schubel – Co-Chair and Volunteer for the Business Membership and Farm to Table Committees

By Akire Bubar, Volunteer Newsletter Editor

Lisa Schubel is a dedicated Heritage Conservancy volunteer who has done tremendous work for the Conservancy over the years. She first started volunteering with the Conservancy 12 years ago, when she joined the Business Membership Committee. She is now co-chair of that committee. Four years ago, she became involved with the Farm to Table event and has served as chair and co-chair of that committee for the past three years. Under her leadership, the event has grown substantially with each successive year. This past July, our 6th Annual Farm to Table event was the most successful one yet. The event raised $40,000 for Heritage Conservancy, which will go to protect local natural and historic treasures, including the Lindsay Farm Preserve where the Farm to Table event is held.

Despite her many accomplishments, Lisa is modest. But her fine work is noted by many at the Conservancy: "Lisa has been a driving force on both our Business Membership Committee and Farm to Table Committee," says Heritage Conservancy staff member Katie Paone. "Through both the Business Membership Committee and Farm to Table Committee, Lisa connects local businesses to Heritage Conservancy and is a strong advocate in spreading the Conservancy's message to preserve and protect our natural and historic heritage."

Outside of her volunteer work, Lisa has many interests. "My family is the most important thing in my life," she writes. "I also enjoy my career as an Estates and Trust attorney - it's rewarding to help my clients." Some of her favorite things in life are spending time at the beach, sports, and good food. When asked for details, she adds, "I like all sports, but football is probably my favorite. The Philadelphia Eagles are my favorite team." Lisa is also an avid reader.

Lisa truly believes in the mission of Heritage Conservancy, and it shows in the work she has done for our organization. When asked about what she enjoys most about volunteering for the Conservancy, she writes, "I have met so many wonderful people who share my passion for open space and preservation." This is a common refrain among Heritage Conservancy volunteers, and one of which we should be proud. We should also be proud to have Lisa as part of our volunteer community. Her work has been invaluable to the Conservancy, and we are fortunate to have such a dedicated volunteer!

Social Media Roundup

Connect with Heritage Conservancy online! Social media is an excellent means to continue the conversation about the important work we do here and to share it with the larger community. The Conservancy is on Facebook, Instagram, and Twitter. Liking our Facebook page is also an easy way to stay on top of day-to-day events at Heritage Conservancy. Please feel free to comment on things posted there - we'd love to hear your thoughts. And if you have a story or photos to share about a Heritage Conservancy event, your volunteer work with the Conservancy, or even just something relevant to our natural and historic heritage here in Bucks and Montgomery Counties, please feel free to post them to our Facebook page to share them with the Conservancy community. Follow us on Instagram and use #heritageconservancy or @heritageconservancy when you post pictures that illustrate our area's natural or historic heritage, and we might feature your photo in an issue of Heritage Happenings, our e-newsletter!
